

Reward Offered For Missing Woman

POSTED: 6:40 pm EDT July 26, 2007

Joey Lynn Offutt has been missing since a fire destroyed her home in Jefferson County.

The July 12th fire claimed the life of an unidentified baby and is part of the reason behind a $2,000 reward for any information as to Offutts whereabouts.

Pennsylvania Crime Stoppers are turning to the public because of Offutt's disappearance, they said police are concerned for her welfare.

The home that Offutt was living in is now a memorial made by friends and neighbors of the Offutts, many have left balloons and flowers on the front lawn.

Neighbors said the memorial is a reminder of the many questions surrounding the baby's death and Offutt's disappearance.

"It's a tragedy, my kids were friends with her oldest daughter, and she was down to my house right after she had her baby and she seemed really happy, and I was surprised after all of this," Marcie Slowson said.

Pennsylvania Crime Stoppers can be reached at 1-800-4PA-TIPS.

Copyright 2007 by WJACTV.com. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redistributed.